

WS Opie Street Growth Fund

Fund Commentary

The Fund delivered a total return of +8.6% in 2025, marking what was, perhaps unexpectedly, a strong year for risk assets. Many equity markets finished the year at or near all-time highs, buoyed by relatively stable economic conditions (despite best efforts to derail global trade) and robust corporate earnings growth, particularly among companies most exposed to the burgeoning AI sector. Furthermore, stockmarket valuations became increasingly elevated, a reflection in part of the continued enthusiasm for technological innovation, which has the potential to drive long-awaited productivity gains and further underpin corporate profitability.

Nonetheless, 2025 proved to be a challenging year, in relative terms, for investors seeking to take differentiated positions, as the 'momentum' factor remained a dominant force in markets. In other words, the most successful strategy was often to continue backing shares that were already performing strongly, sometimes with limited consideration for underlying fundamentals or valuations, as is effectively the case with passive index investors. Indeed, those investing with a focus on 'quality' companies typically lost out to those adopting more of a 'value' orientated approach (often requiring a compromise on quality), as well as to those willing to be more speculative. Moreover, investors who maintained discipline around portfolio balance and diversification typically lagged those prepared to accept the considerable concentration risk currently present in global markets, particularly due to the dominance of mega-cap technology firms.

Looking ahead to 2026, we remain confident that investors who adopt a differentiated perspective - prioritising quality, exercising caution in speculative markets, and maintaining disciplined portfolio balance and diversification - will ultimately be rewarded, possibly sooner rather than later. With this outlook, we believe the Fund is well positioned to deliver attractive long-term returns for our investors.

During the most recent quarter, we added the Evenlode Global Opportunities Fund to the portfolio, a decision which follows several years of constructive dialogue with its management team. This focused equity fund aims to "harness the compounding power of global companies with durable competitive advantages", a philosophy which rings true with our broader investment approach. The team seeks to outperform peers through thorough research, for example dedicating significant time and resources to engaging with investee companies' customers, suppliers, peers, and former employees. Notable holdings include Alphabet, Experian, L'Oréal, Mastercard, and RELX. Furthermore, our longstanding relationship with the management team has enabled us to secure a discounted fee share class for our investors.

Fund Objective & Policy

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide long-term (5 – 10 years) growth through a combination of capital and income, with an emphasis on capital.

The fund adopts a global investment approach, unconstrained by a formal benchmark, with a diversified exposure to a range of asset classes including equities (both UK and global), fixed interest (corporate bonds), alternatives (including infrastructure, real estate and private equity) and cash.

Typically at least 75% of the fund will be exposed to equities.

Investment Approach

The Fund's exposure is primarily achieved by investing in collective investments (including investment trusts, OEICs and ETFs).

The blend of active and passive strategies seeks to maximise returns, whilst minimising costs.

The funds are invested on a long-term basis, with low expected portfolio turnover.

Strategic asset allocation is a core focus given the associated contribution to long term investment returns, whilst helping to mitigate risk. Tactical asset allocation will enable flexibility to adjust to changing market conditions.
